

Fall 2010 Welcome

Hello, my name is Susan J. Schurman. I am the Dean of the University College Community and hold concurrent roles as faculty in the School of Management and Labor Relations, Director of Life-Long Learning, and Veteran Services Coordinator for the New Brunswick Campus. I'd like to take this opportunity to offer a heartfelt Rutgers welcome to our new adult and nontraditional students and to welcome back our continuing on-campus and off-campus students.

UCC is aware that adults and nontraditional students must meet various responsibilities at home and at work while making extra efforts to reach their academic goals. We also know the value of successfully completing a college degree, not just in financial terms--though the financial return-on-investment is substantial--but also in terms of personal development. It is our mission and our ongoing goal to keep adult and nontraditional students informed of important events, resources, services, dates, and major/minor programs that are available to students during the evening and weekends. We advocate for you inside the larger Rutgers University community by recommending policies and programs to meet your expressed needs.

This past Spring, we held our 5th annual Veterans Appreciation Reception allowing veterans to voice their concerns and meet key administrators. We participated in adult recruitment, orientations, transition programs, and veteran outreach initiatives, to name a few.

This semester, we welcome the new Director of Veteran Services, Ret. Col. Stephen Abel, who will provide our veterans with services targeted specifically to their needs. We have begun working with more Rutgers-New Brunswick professional schools toward creating degree-completion programs for direct admit of transfer students. This year, the School of Management and Labor Relations (SMLR) began admitting transfer students directly into their new BS program. Our goal is to continue to create a sense of community for all nontraditional students, especially those students who do not live on campus and whose lives are also dedicated to responsibilities outside of academia. We are looking forward to seeing you on August 28th.

Rutgers University welcomes Director of Veteran Services Col. Stephen G. Abel

Colonel Stephen G. Abel, United States Army (Retired), joined the staff at Rutgers University on July 1, 2010 as part of the Vice President for Student Affairs team. His background includes Deputy Commissioner, Dept. of Military and Veteran Affairs (DMVA), Director, Division of Veteran Services at State of New Jersey, DMVA and Administrator, Veterans Cemeteries, Monuments and Memorials at State of New Jersey, DMVA.

Col. Abel will be responsible for the development and coordination of a comprehensive program of support services for veteran students at all three Rutgers campuses (New Brunswick, Newark, and Camden). He will serve as the principal advocate for student veterans; ensure the quality of policies, programs, activities, and services designated to enhance the educational experiences of veterans, and act as the university's liaison with outside offices whose work impacts the lives of veteran students.

STUDY TIPS FOR NONTRADITIONAL STUDENTS

Developing study skills is a concern for working adults returning for a new semester. Experts say that people learn more by reflecting on what they are learning rather than by simply memorizing it. Try keeping an ongoing "reading journal" to record thoughts on the material and note questions it raises. When you go back to review your notes, you'll find new connections to current material and possibly new ways of looking at your subject. Click for source.

UCC NONTRADITIONAL STUDENT OF THE MONTH

TANA G. LOY

Tana Loy started her career at Rutgers in the Fall of 2009 as a transfer student from Georgia Southern University and the North Metro Technical College. She shares that she is very happy with the choice she made to come to Rutgers University. She is a student at the School of Arts and Sciences and was recently admitted to the Edward J. Bloustein School of Planning and Public Policy. Tana graduated from Georgia's Pickens HS in 2002. She is a veteran of the U.S. Army, married to an Army officer, has a three-year-old son and another child on the way! She is the epitome of an adult/ nontraditional student in higher education today and deservedly maintains a Rutgers' GPA of over 3.4. From firsthand experience balancing her schedule at home, work, and school, Tana is cognizant of the struggles that affect the lives of adult/ nontraditional students. Tana said, "The University College Community has been so supportive of the needs of adult/nontraditional students that I had incredible success so far at Rutgers."

This past January, Tana had the opportunity to meet other student veterans from the New Brunswick, Camden, and Newark campuses. These students inspired her to form a student organization that serves student veterans here on the Rutgers-New Brunswick campus. Along with several other student vets, Tana registered their group, which will be an active component of Student Involvement this fall. The groups name is Rutgers University Services, Education, and Resources for Student Veterans, or RU-SERVS. The mission is to put in place policies and procedures to make the transition to university life as smooth as possible for veterans, to provide social and academic support, advocacy, and outreach for veterans currently attending Rutgers and potential veterans who are contemplating academic careers at Rutgers. Tana believes she is fortunate that her time in the military has enabled her to attend college through the utilization of the Montgomery G.I. Bill/Post 9/11 G.I. Bill, and one of the goals of RU-SERVS is to encourage other veterans to take full advantage of their educational benefits. Rutgers is making huge progress in recognizing the unique needs of veteran students. Tana is honored to see this progress in action.

While Tana is originally from Texas, she chose Rutgers because of her husband's encouragement, support and belief in the quality of education that Rutgers offers. Her husband, a New Jersey native, is a 2003 graduate of Rutgers. Tana states that he has been incredibly supportive of her and believes that support from family and friends is key to helping adult/non-traditional students achieve success in an academic environment. "It is difficult to make that transition to being a student again, but the reward of obtaining a first-rate education more than makes up for the sacrifice. I am so glad the University College Community is available for students like myself who may need extra support in achieving their educational goals."

Service -Learning Courses (CESEP Program)

Service-learning is a great way to take courses in which you learn about the 'real world' and to develop professional skills and experience before you graduate. Credit is given for service-learning courses, but there are other benefits: you can actively work toward improving the lives of others, learn how to contribute toward your community's enrichment, and develop skills for becoming engaged in civic life. Participants in service-learning meet community needs while developing their abilities for critical thinking and group problem-solving.

The Civic Engagement and Service Education partnerships (CESEP) program, formerly known as the CASE program, offers service-learning courses in many fields. Contact CESEP office for details and for an updated list of CESEP courses being offered this semester at 932-8660 or check website at <http://engage.rutgers.edu/>
